ALL 2

3 “What day is it, Ollie?” asks Sam.
“Today is Saturday,” answers Ollie.
“It’s Dinosaur Day at the science museum,” says Avery.
“Do you want to go to the museum?” Sam asks Ollie.
“Yes, I do!” Ollie answers.

PUBLISHING

SPEAK
Are you interested in Dinosaur Day? Why or why not?

Art Science

7 Waffles, Chocolate, and...Dinosaurs!

Belgium is a small country famous for its chocolate and waffles. It's also home to one of Europe's top science museums! The Museum of Natural Sciences of Belgium opened in 1848, and it has the world's largest dinosaur hall.

It contains over 30 dinosaur skeletons and many interactive displays. Around 300,000 people visit the museum every year.

eGIVES PUBLISHING